Jafra for Relief and Youth Development

In one of the Damascus suburbs, in Qudsaya, Jafra has opened a community center to serve the population living there, this center provides different services including educational courses, vocational training, recreational activities, and community-based events.

Recently the center focused on capacity-building activities for undergraduates, recent graduates, and social workers.

The center also announced a series of life skills courses, including decision making, precaution, stress management, problem-solving among others.

Jafra centers in Lebanon run Food Production Workshops. In Mankubeen, in Burj El Barajneh, Shatila, and Ein El Hilweh camps, the results of cooking varied between jams, olives, pickles preparations among many other recipes. After the end of the workshops, the packed food is distributed by Jafra volunteers to the most vulnerable families in the camps' neighborhoods.

Jafra has always encouraged youth to practice a sport. Football is one of them. Accordingly, each center established a football team where the children and youth have the chance to train regularly and to participate in competitions and tournaments on local scales.

Jafra is proud of the football teams' achievements in both Syria and Lebanon since it is the result of the continuous hard work of the players.

On the International Day of Human Rights, the Jafra Foundation revived the occasion by highlighting the basic human rights stipulated in the International Conventions and the United Nations, which most Palestinians have been deprived of for a long time, especially the right to live in a safe place, which is considered a priority on the human rights list.

Another year has passed, and a new one full of plans, projects, activities, and events to enhance people's quality of life has come.

Since it is a chance to set goals and wishes, the children at Jafra centers in both Syria and Lebanon attended some recreational activities related to the occasion allowing them to feel the spirit of the holiday season.
