Help Jafra Center in Athens Stay Opened

1

Over many years, Jafra center (Bab Al Shams) in Greece has have a significant role in supporting, empowering and educating refugees and migrants. The place has been a safe space for culture, knowledge and creation of opportunities.

In April, Jafra embarked upon a donation campaign to support the center in order to keep running within the current circumstances.

Our goal is to raise £5,500 to keep this wonderful place of learning and empowerment alive.

Eid Presents Make Children Happy in Homs Camp

2

Despite the current circumstances, Jafra center in Homs Camp did not forget its children. On the morning of the Eid 1st day, our volunteers paid a visit to children carrying presents that gave them happiness and joy like every year.

Food industry training was closed as the participant ladies have learned the proper methods to make and preserve healthy food.

Our goal is to empower and support the participants to use what they have learned to embark on their own economic projects that may create an additional income to enhance the livelihood of their families.

The next step will be enrolling the aforementioned participants in a project management training to empower them to put well-formulated plans to shift to the practical side.

After weeks of suspension due to the COVID19 crisis, Bab Al Shams center in Athens has resumed its activities taking in consideration the proper health and protection procedures that secure the safety of the beneficiaries as well as the volunteers. The photography training is one of the first trainings that has been resumed. Despite the small number of the trainees, we are keen to take all needed action to secure their safety.

Burj el Barajneh Center never stopped its activities. Mainly PSS and awareness activities were given remotely to all our beneficiaries from the camp since the beginning of the Corona crisis. During the month of May, it was decided to add to it structured English and Computer courses, awaiting the possibility to reopen and meet physically the students.
