Jafra for Relief and Youth Development

In August, Jafra celebrated the youth.

Most of Jafra's operations are only feasible thanks to the commitment of the youth, years after years. Jafra applauds youth for their dedication at all levels and in all locations.

A fashion design course is available to participants at the Qudsaya Jafra Center. By the end of the classes, interested individuals are able to design, plan, and sew an outfit.

The Center's program is frequently updated with new course offerings.

In Lebanon and Syria, more and more women are expressing an interest in studying English.

Jafra opens them its doors offering the opportunity to study the language free of charge, in a comfortable setting and with qualified instructors.

Jafra facilities in Syria continued operating through August, offering a variety of children's programmes and activities. They could have a fun-filled, educational, and active summer. Summer programmes are closing their doors at the end of August to make room for our winter clubs.

Associations pool their expertise, services, and skills at the camps level to guarantee a greater and better response to participants in their activities. Jafra is always eager and delighted to share expertise, gain knowledge from others, and work with local partners. In Ein el Hilweh camp, a facilitators' training, for instance, attracted numerous associations including Jafra.
